Tribel is a company that reached nearly 700,000 users within its first few years, all without any capital from VC's.

Omar Rivero launched Tribel, a new social media network is on the market, branding itself with a grand promise of something never attained by even the most well-funded and fully staffed social media platforms: to be a hate-free forum

They want to take over "X" and are using the power of community to achieve their next milestones.

Over 7,000 investor believe in their mission and how much love they have received in comments:
